Farm Bureau Activities

The prices of farm products would have dropped following the last war just as they did in 1920 if it had not been for the efforts of the Farm Bureau, Eaton, Harlow, Farm Bureau field man from Athens, told the Ogeechee group at their regular meeting Tuesday night.

Mr. Harden pointed out that the present price support programs are not perfect by any means, but are adequate to keep such declines as were prevalent in 1920 when cotton went from 47 cents to 7 cents per pound in about twenty days. The present legislative program of the Georgia and National Farm Bureaus was outlined and the need for a continued effort to improve existing programs was discussed by Mr. Harden to the some 160 present.

James Purcell, agricultural agent for the Central of Georgia, urged the local fellows to get their livestock programs on a sound basis and told of numerous instances where livestock farmers from other sections had come here to buy land to raise livestock on. Mr. Purcell pointed out the trend toward cotton moving westward and the cattle to move eastward. There is no reason why local farmers who now own this land cannot go ahead and develop it as well as those that are coming here from the west and mid-west can.

E. D. Shaw, I. V. Simmons, B. C. Lee Jr., C. W. Zetterower and John Thackston entered the corn contest. A. S. Dobb, member of the state legislature from Bulloch county, discussed the recent session in Atlanta with the Register Farm Bureau last Thursday night. Mr. Dodd stated that some of the legislation asked for by the Farm Bureau would have passed had the organization been active on certain committees. He predicted that a re-organization of the present tax program for Georgia would be made prior to September and stated that he thought a sales tax would be necessary. The group present endorsed the move.

COTTON GROWERS GIVEN INCREASE

Approximately 50,000 Acres
Added To Allotment For Farmers Under Agreement

Macon, March 20.—Georgia cotton planters will be permitted to add approximately 50,000 acres to this year's crop under provisions of the agreement reached by conferees of the House and Senate in Washington regarding the cotton acreage allotment program.

This announcement was made today by H. L. Wingate, president of the Georgia Farm Bureau Federation, upon receipt of Rep. Stephen Pace's communication outlining the agreement.

The conference report will be submitted to the House and Senate this week for final approval and then rushed to Key West, Fla., for signature of President Truman. The chief executive is vacationing in the Florida city.

The conferees, according to Mr. Wingate, provided that each cotton farm shall increase the acreage to the larger of 65 per cent of the average planted to cotton and regarded as planted to cotton under the War Crop Act during the three years 1946, 1947 and 1948, or 45 per cent of the highest acreage planted to cotton and regarded as planted to cotton during any one of said three years; but in no event shall such increase exceed 50 per cent of the total cultivated land on the farm.

"The increase in cotton acreage cannot be made arbitrarily," the Farm Bureau president pointed out. "The owner-operator of each farm desiring an increase must first file application with county FMA committee and await action by this group before proceeding to utilize the proposed added acreage."

Another provision of the conference committee which the Georgia Farm Bureau supported, Mr. Wingate asserted, was that of transferring back to the county FMA committee cotton acreage the owner-operator will not plant in 1950. "This acreage may be re-allocated by the committee to other farms in the county if the owner-operator makes application for additional acreage."

Peanut farmers may also increase the acreage this year, without penalty, and still have the benefit of support prices on the allotted acreage, he added. However, peanuts produced on the excess acreage must be sold exclusively for crushing for oil and at all prices.

"Swift's Blenn"

New Process

say tobacco men
"makes top bid leaf!"

In growing tobacco, you naturally want to get "top bid" for your leaf. That means it has to be smooth, bright tobacco—the kind that Henry Blenn, Swift's Blenn, helps you grow. And what's more, BLENN helps make higher yields per acre.

When a grower states that he can sell to the raw where BLENN was used, that means it does something extra for your crop. And that's just what this successful grower says...

"I ran short of my regular tobacco fertilizer so I bought BLENN. It finished the field. I could tell to the raw where the BLENN was used. The BLENN-fed tobacco weighed out heavier, cured better, and sold for a higher price." G. M. Robertson, Roxboro, N. C.

I would like to take this opportunity to express my deepest gratitude and thanks to all those who have been so nice and understanding since my recent misfortune, the loss by fire of my business—the Ideal Shoe Shop.

IN MEMORIAM

In memory of a devoted mother, MRS. W. C. ADAMS, who passed away nine years ago, March 24, 1941.

She always leaned to watch for us. Anxious if we were late; In winter by the window.

In summer by the gate. And though we mocked her tenderly she never could forget!

And so we think that where she is She must be watching yet. Waiting till we come home to her, Anxious if we are late;

Watching from Heaven's window, Learning from Heaven's Gate. HER CHILDREN.
